

IJT: "Instruction Jump Table".
 For every instruction in the instruction set, it contains the micro-address of the first micro-op to execute for that particular instruction specifier. Essentially, it decodes the IS, and translates it into a micro-op

